Select Poetry.

THE COMPOSITOR.

BY ONE OF THEM.

"With fingers weary and worn,"
With body tired and sick,
The pale-faced printer stands at his case,
Setting up type in a "stick."
Pick, pick, pick!
Letter and space and lead;
Pick, pick, pick!
O! how weary the hand and head!

Letter and space and lead,
Lead and letter and space—
What a wonder then that printer has
Such a wan and dejected face?
No matter how late the hour—
No matter how tired or sick;
The jaded printer must stand at his case
Piling up type in his "stick."

How wearily passes the hours;
How weary body and brain:
But his hands must move however hard
The effort, or great the pain.
The letters drep in their place,
And pale, pale, pale,
Is the weary printer's face—
O! how he sighs for a rest

As he dolefully hums his rhyme;
But it's all in vain—the paper's behind,
And it must be out "on time."

As he moodly stands at his case,
With a mingled sigh and groan,
He sighs for some genial clime
Where printing is unknown;
And his heart begins to throb,
And his brain begins to reel—
O! who can paint the distress
That the worn-out printers feel.

O! citizens, friends, divines!
Remember us when you pray,
For you must have the news
If we work both night and day;
Our life is a life of toil,
And pale and thin our faces—
While you repose on beds of down
We printers are at our cases.

"With fingers weary and worn,"
And face of ashen hue,
The weary printer stands at his case,
Wasting his strength for you.

County Correspondence.

A Chapter of Horrors—An Infuriated Dutch Poet—Poisoning Extraordinary—Violent Death—Etc., Etc.

CENTRE HALL, Aug. 2, '69.

APPLICABLE TO A DUTCH POET.

It never rains but it pours. Seasons of crime, frighful horrors and carnage are no less positive and marked in their continuance and consequences than the eras of desolating and unrelenting epidemics. Wars are succeeded by conflicts not less sanguine; crimes are seldom left standing alone, "but are followed by horrors such as overshadow and deluge all preceeding records of unnaturalness, and epidemics are only given additional prominence and garmented with greater horror through their, so to speak, 'local habitations and name.'" Epidemics are usually confined to the limits of dense populations, while crime, like the eruisions of a horse fly, are liberally scattered hither and yon. Mental idiosyncrasies, or, idiot—syncrasies, are not less wonderful in their peculiarities. Though born a first-class saint and reared on the essence of incorruptible and unsourable christian stomachic irrigants, just at the time when mans mental balance seems best poised, some pinion, cog, pivot or infinitesimal item of mental mechanism gives away, and the dismal and dreary chattering of a wobbling mind instantly follows. To illustrate: a friend of ours recently engaged in a rather complex and exhaustive undertaking, involving unusual stress of mental resources. The undertaking resulted, not in a deplorable disaster, nor yet in a consumate victory, but rather, in medus res—in the middle of the thing. We saw him afterwards, noticed his gloomy and dejected bearing. Words of consolation, of hope and of faith were freely offered, and we left him in a state of comparative hopefulness and rest. Imagine our surprise on opening a late number of our local hebdomadal, the Reporter, to see therein that our pseudo friend had mounted a bare-boned and far-gone brute named Pegassus, and had "gone for" us in a half column of what may be appropriately denominated dutch chowder. We were actually attacked by a poet—a country poet—nay, a country dutch poet, son of a country dutch landlord, by an intimate friend. In our chagrin, grief, and mortification we laid the Reporter away, sadly thinking that of

Weird, wizened, wicked and wise,
Under the earth and beneath the skies,
Whether Malay, Chickesaw, Mormon or Despot,
That ever drew breath, or drank from a—pot;
The meanest, dirtiest, silliest scoundead
That ever sucked milk or pissed as a loushead;
The wickedest and worst English word—mangler:
In fact, of the vilest that we could recall:
The "ornariest" son-of-a—of them all
Was that hemaphrodite dutchman, Jack Spangler.

WHOLESALE POISONING.

Speaking more particularly of the prevalence of crime, our community was last night agitated from centre to circumference by a report of the poisoning of the family of Abot Fly, Esq., an old resident of Potters Mills. We have not, at this writing, the complete details we could desire, and can, therefore, but give such particulars as are current. The family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Fly and seven children—the oldest some twelve years old, was well known throughout this valley. The parents have resided at Potters Mills or near them, some forty years, and were an industrious and energetic couple. The children were bright, active, and promising. On Saturday night, Mrs Fly complained of dizziness and was soon afterwards violently seized with spasms. Within one hour from her first complaning, she was dead. Mr. Fly died before morning, and the oldest children were found dead in the morning, upon a neighbors's doorstep, whither, it is supposed, they had gone for assistance. Yesterday—Sunday—two more of the children died, and the remaining three are probably dead ere this. The excitement among the numerous relatives and acquaintances of the deceased is intense. In what manner the poison was administered to the victims is not known. Some say the poison was in cheese, of which the deceased were liberal eaters. Others say sugar. Among the mass of rumors and contradictory reports which comes to us, it is difficult to select the true from the false. Whether a coroners jury has investigated the case or not we cannot say. We hope to be able to give you the full particulars of this most wholesale murder, in our next.

STILL ANOTHER.

A. P. Artridge, for a long time residing in the Seven Mountains, above Faust's while walking down the Milroy side of the Mountains, on Saturday eve., last, was run over by a heavily loaded wagon and instantly killed. His neck arms and one of his legs were broke. The deceased leaves a large family of children.

If the reader has not already tired of this chapter of horrors, we might add that Hon. Fred. Kurtz, of the Reporter, found, one morning last week, the lifeless body of a child lying in the woods near this place. Who placed the infant there, what brought Kurtz there at so early an hour, we are unable to conjecture. Kurtz reverently spread a copy of the Reporter over it, and

"Left it alone in its glory."

We sincerely hope our next communication may be of a more cheerful nature.

PERSONAL.

Duncan, Foster, Thompson and others have recovered from the measles and are quite healthy. Our distinguished townsman, Hon. M. L. Leitzell, of Potter's Mills, will be presented to the Republican County Convention as a suitable candidate for legislative honors. We are pleased to note this, as his name will be a tower of strength throughout this valley. Cool, cautious and circumspect, well informed and popular, we say to the convention, give us Leitzell, and we will knock Pennsvalley into Democracy "pi."

McCRACKEN.

Newspapers.

People read the newspapers; they criticise them with all the superior unction of a superior virtue; they are sure that if they were the conductors of the journals they could and would make them just the next door at least to perfection; but still it is rather a bewildering circumstance that they continue to read them, and are forever devising plans of turning them to private advantage without paying any money for the privilege. The census of those who are always trying, generally in a ludicrously transparent manner, to advertise themselves or their wares for nothing, we cannot state with numerical accuracy, but it is sufficient to say that the name of them is Legion. Let that go, however, since the newspapers can protect themselves tolerably well from that kind of enterprise! Some denounce the press because it publishes accounts of crime as it publishes other intelligence; but it never occurs to these gentle censors that the press is perhaps the most efficient detective agent in the country, and that publicity is also very strongly objected to by a class of men who, to say the least of them, don't make fools of themselves by denouncing the press—we mean the administrators of justice. An example of this is furnished by a trial of a noterious criminal in an eastern State lately, by the counsel for the convicted prisoner remarking that the conviction was due, "not so much to the officers of law, as to the information respecting the crime of the prisoner scattered over the country by the newspapers." For this and for similar services the State pays no reward to the newspapers aforesaid, but the critics of journalism do reward them munificently by declaring that it is highly deleterious to society to print accounts of crime in their columns.

JOSH BILLINGS says: "You ain't obliged to ask a gal's mammy if you may go home with her from a partee; git the gal's koncent and sail in; its proper 'nuff to ask her to take your arm; but, mind you, you hev no rite to put your arm around her waste, unless you meet a bear on the rode, and then you are bound to take your arm away jest as soon as the bear gets safely by."

A LITTLE boy met his Sabbath school teacher and innocently asked her if to say "cofferdam" was swearing. She replied, "No, my dear—what makes you ask that question?" His answer was, I saw an old cow down the street yonder, she was nearly choked to death, and I thought she would coff 'er-dam head off"

A bachelor uses the following modification of a hackneyed phrase in congratulating a newly married friend; "I wish you much jaw."

Ten Years Ago.

About ten years ago Daniel Sickels committed a cowardly murder in the streets of Washington. Now he represents the United States at the court of Spain.

Less than ten years ago, Governor Joe Brown, of Georgia, was the leader of the secession movement, and afterwards originator, builder and manager of the Andersonville prison pen, in which so many thousands of Union soldiers perished.—Now Brown is the leader of the radical party in Georgia.

Considerably less than ten years ago, Gen. Longtreet was at the head of a rebel army, dealing death and destruction to our Union Soldiers. Now he is the appointed of Grant to a lucrative position in New Orleans.

Ten Years ago, Ben Butler, at the Charleston Convention, voted fifty-three times for Jeff. Davis as a candidate for President, and, at that time, was a poor man. Now he is the head and front—the very quintessence of Radicalism—and worth his millions of dollars.—

Ten years ago, U. S. Grant was a penniless pensioner on the bounty of the Dent family, now he is President of the United States, and the entire Dent family are pensioners on the Government.

Ten years ago the national debt was about sixty millions of dollars, now it is nearly three thousand millions.

Ten years ago not a national taxgatherer was to be seen or heard of in this broad land, now they are numerous as lice on a cabbage leaf.—Copperhead Paper.

Ten years ago Daniel E. Sickles was a prominent and influential leader of the Democratic party, sustained and eulogised by its journals. Since that time he has distinguished himself in the military service of the Government, having lost a leg in the battle of Gettysburg.—Now he is villified and denounced by the papers that admired him ten years ago.

Less than ten years ago Joe Brown was a Democrat, and engaged heartily in the work of his party, but the rebellion having been suppressed, he has used all his efforts to persuade the Southern people to submit in good faith, and yield a cordial support to the Government. Now he is denounced by his former political associates.

Considerably less than ten years ago Longstreet was in full accord with the Democratic party, but having been overcome by force of arms, he at once accepted the situation, and appealed to his late associates in arms to do the same. To show that the Government is ready to deal kindly and mercifully with all who submit in good faith, the President appointed Gen. Longstreet to an important office, and the Senate confirmed the appointment. Now Gen. Longstreet is bitterly denounced by the Democrats.

Ten years ago Ben Butler was a Democrat, high in the counsels of that party, his name carried at the head of some of its papers as their choice for President. Since that time, he has rendered great and valuable services to the Government, against the rebels. Now he is bitterly denounced by the Democrats.

Ten years ago the splendid military genius of U. S. Grant lay dormant, no occasion having arisen to call out his powers. Since that time he has been made the instrument, under God, of saving and preserving the Government, and Democrats hate him with fiendish hatred.

Ten years ago the Democrats held control of the Government. They had, in time of peace, run it into debt sixty millions, destroyed its credit, robbed its navy yards and arsenals, stolen everything that could be stolen, and left nothing undone that, in their judgment, would contribute to its destruction. Now, in consequence of the Democratic rebellion, the Government is heavily in debt, but its credit is good, and, under a Republican administration, the debt is being rapidly reduced.

Ten years ago there were no national tax gathers. Now they are numerous, and their presence serves to keep the people in remembrance of the villainnies perpetrated by the Democracy.

Wonderful are the changes that have occurred in ten years, but the only change made in the Democratic party is from bad to worse.—Jersey Shore Vidette.

AN INVITATION TO DINNER.—A good story is told of a couple of farmers who lived a few miles apart. One day one called on the other, happening around at dinner time. The person called upon, by the way, was a rather penurious old fellow. He was seated at the table, enjoying his dinner. The visitor drew to the stove, looking very wishfully toward the table, expecting the old farmer to invite him to dine. The old farmer kept on eating.

"What's the news up your way, neighbor?" still eating. "No news, eh?"

"No, I believe not." Presently a tho't struck the visitor. "Well, yes, friend, I did hear of one item of news that's worth mentioning."

"Hs, what is that?"

"Neighbor Jones has a cow that has five calves."

"Is that so? Good gracious! What in thunder does the fifth calf do when the others are sucking?"

"Why, he stands and looks on, just as I do, like a dum fool."

"Mary, put on another plate."

A CHAP from the country, stopping at one of our hotels, sat down to dinner.—Upon the bill of fare being handed to him by the waiter, he said he "did not care about read'n now—he'd wait until after dinner."

Political.

The Pennsylvania Democracy.

The New York Citizen, the well known Democratic weekly, formerly owned by "Miles O'Reilly,", has no sympathy with the Pennsylvania Democracy, either in their platform or candidates. It says:—

"No condemnation of the rebellion against which the soldiers fought, even though the soldiers were praised—the omission being an insult, if any reference to the subject were proper. No fitting expression in favor of economy in public expenditures; nothing, in fact, first or last, but the old negro question and general abuse of Republicans. The self-same grumbling without proposing an improvment; the same refusal to understand the altered position of the whole country, which has led to defeat so frequently. The nomination of a man with nothing to recomend him but the faculty of heaping up wealth, with no record worth mentioning, and nothing about him to arouse enthusiasm but his money." Not the first sign of true loyalty, nor the least evidence of a devotion to the best interests of the whole country. Under such circumstances we do not expect nor wish that the Democrats should carry Pennsylvania.

"We do not wish this simply because it would be a triumph of the Vallandighams, and the Pendletons, and the old school that never learns and never forgets; the former slave power toadies, who imagined that slavery was a thing of beauty and a joy forever, instead of being at best but a cruel necessity of the Constitution. A triumph on such principles and with such candidates would only revive the dead men of the North and the South, the putrescent bodies which have been smothered under the loyalty of the nation; the maligant rebels, whether they register themselves as enemies of the nation in Cincinnati, Harrisburg, or New Orleans. A victory now would bring the extremists back to life and power, and with them another defeat in 1872."

THE silence of the "greenbacks for bonds" supporters of Packer is beginning to be painful. We had a suspicion that some of them might be honest in their claims; but since the nomination of Packer, the bloated bondholder, the delusion has been dissipated. But let no one suppose that Packer took the bonds when the country wanted money most, and when patriotic men came forward with aid to the extent of their ability. Packer did no such thing. He had no heart for such a business. Between the two he would have given sooner to the Jeff. Davis concern. Not wishing to assist the Government, and not daring to assist—openly at least—the Confederacy, he kept his money till he perceived that the bonds were good to speculate in. He then went in to the tune of some millions, which he doubtless intends to keep without taxation till he gets his gold. Hence the silence of the once blatant organs whose cry has ever been greenbacks for bonds."

HANCOCK didn't suit the Democrats very well for a candidate. The men he commanded during the war, and for whose doings he was mainly held responsible—when they got into a fight, shot too many members of the Democratic party, who had guns and were shooting at the "old flag" and those who sustained it. Wonder the fellows in Ohio didn't think of this when they nominated Rosecrans! Possibly the private reason for not taking Hancock was, that he hung the patron Saint of their party—Mrs. Surratt.—Greensburg Herald.

OF the political state of affairs in Pennsylvania the New York Commercial Advertiser says:

Packer has nothing to recommend him but his bank account. He is old, infirm, and past his usefulness. Governor Geary, the Republican candidate, has served the county as a statesman and a soldier. He is energetic and progressive. The issue in the canvass in Penn'a will be dollars ago, and imbecility, against brains, patriotism, and activity.

IF there are any Douglass Democrats now acting with the Democracy, it may be interesting for them to know that Asa Packer was a delegate to the Charleston National Convention in 1860, from which he bolted and united with the Southern Secessionists, in nominating John C. Breckinridge as the secession candidate to defeat Stephen A. Douglas, the regular Democratic nominee.

ONE hundred and one thousand Republicans in Virgina, not counting those who voted for Walker on the solemn pledge that he was a member of the same party. In 1860 Lincoln got 1,929 votes in Virginia. The white vote for Wells at the late election was at least 10,000. A significant advance.

WHY would the letter i added to the name of the Democratic candidate for Judge describe the condition of his party? Because it would change Pershing to perishing.

Awake! Arouse!!

Circulate the Documents—Subscribe for the "Republican," and induce your neighbor to subscribe for it.—Work! Work!! Work!!!

Republicans of Centre what do you intend to do? Are you working for the success of GOV. GEARY, HON. H. W. WILLIAMS, and the redemption of Centre county, or have you determined to adopt the do-nothing, policy—say you can't—and thus suffer the Democrats to elect their candidates, to inflict upon the State and Nation their free trade dogmas; their secession or State Rights theories, and there pet scheme of repudiation? We cannot believe that you will adopt the do-nothing policy. We believe that you have resolved to work as you have never worked before to save the State and the county from the disgrace of a Democratic triumph.

All that is required to break up and hurl from power the contemptible "Court House Ring" is work—earnest, energetic work. Every man should be at his post. His duty, or the duty of each and every one should be well defined and each and every one should perform that duty faithfully and well. Let there be no heart—burnings, no feuds, no apathy in Centre county. Close up the ranks and on to victory, glorious victory.

The Pittsburg Gazette in speaking on this subject says: "The Republicans of Penn'a are apathetic and indifferent—the Democrats are not. Never were they more vigilant and laborious than at this very moment. If hard and persistent work will give them the crown of victory in October, they mean to win and wear it.

True, they are not making an active campaign, in the ordinary meaning of that term; nor do they intend to make such an one unless forced into it, by movements on the Republican side. They believe their chances to be better with a "still hunt" than with a "loud" hunt. For many years past they have joined in well defined issues, have gone before the people, with all the powers of argumentation and appeal they could master, and have been beaten at all points. Repeated defeats have not only taught them caution, but have dictated the employment of a different strategy.

They are aware that the Republicans, in a certain sense, are sated with victories, and lulled, by over confidence, that their ascendancy cannot be shaken. These are both delusive and perilous states of mind for individuals or parties, charged in any manner with high missions, to fall into. While they remain therein, they are, with comparative ease, taken at disadvantage and overcome.

What is most needed, just now, is for the leaders of the Republican organization to take an exact view of the situation and then adopt the measures which are needful. The masses await the signals of those they have chosen for that purpose, and are impatient to respond to any proper call upon their activity.

The Republicans of the State cannot afford at this crisis to lose the Governor and the balance of power in the Supreme Court. Important measures remain to be consummated, and vital principles to be established by judicial decrees.

A year from next winter the State will have to be divided into Congressional and Legislative dist's. To surrender this power into the hands of the Democrats, will be to remit the State into their possession to be wrenched away again only by prodigious outlays of time and effort.

In view of all the facts we appeal to Republicans, here and throughout the Commonwealth, to shake off their apathy, to cease bickerings and contentions, to promptly close up their ranks, and enter vigorously upon the work before them. A simultaneous onset, such as we made last year, and on several previous occasions, will quickly decide the fate of the field in our favor. Up, men! and at them!"

THE most significant alliteration of the "P's" is Pity Poor Packer, Picked Plucked and Plundered.

Tennessee Election.

The Democrats are crowing over the Tennessee election. We cannot see what they have to crow over. Both the candidates for Governor, SENTER and STOKES, declared themselves to be radical Republicans. SENTER, aided by Governor BROWNLOW, has been elected by a large majority, on a platform advocating "Universal suffrage, and universal amnesty." HORACE GREELY, of course, did all he could for the election of SENTER. What then have Democrats to crow over if it is not the fact that more negros voted for SENTER than for STOKES? It would seem that they are only opposed to negro suffrage, when GUMBO votes the Radical ticket; but if he will vote so as to favor the rebels, then our northern copperheads throw up their hats an "Ror for the nigger." Poor devils; it is so long since they have had any thing to crow over, that they are "thankful for small favors," and are willing even to go back to their old practices, and make love to the dusky daughters of Afric's sunny clime, if such practices would give them the sugar teat of power, and revive the stinking carcass of the defunct Democratic party. No better evidence of all this is needed than the fact, that, at a meeting held in Memphis to celebrate the election of SENTER, several transparancies were borne aloft by the crowd, upon one of which was the picture of a white man clasping hands with a negro; and underneath the picture, was inscribed the following: "We are in favor of negro suffrage. It is false that we ever claimed this to be the white man's Government—the old slave owners are the negro's best friend." Queer arrangement for Penn'a Democracy to exult over. Ain't it?

It proves one thing to a demonstration, that is, that the Democratic party have no principles, and that the leaders in Penn'a would import from Virginia, Tennessee &c., enough of their colored fellow citizens, to secure the election of A—BY PACKER, if it were in their power to do so. Out upon such hypocrits.

UNDER the caption of, "P's for the Democracy," we find the following good things in the Erie Gazette:

Asa Packer made his money by buying coal lands cheap and waiting for advancement. He can lose it all by buying nominations dear and wating for election.

In the late National Democratic Convention, when Judge Woodward proposed Asa Packer as a nominee for President, the universal whisper was—"Who in —— is Asa Packer?"—After the next election the general inquiry will be—"Where in ——is Asa Packer?"

If Asa Packer is the "poor man's candidate" because he has $20,000,000, how much more does he need to be the" rich man's candidate?"

A pill for Packer—the seventh plank of his platform, which declares that the Democracy should "gratefully remember" the soldiers. How can he swallow it and try to beat a soldier candidate?"

A Democratic exchange, speaking of Asa Packer's nomination, says: "It was a sensible thing in the State Convention to select a man possessing both dollars and sense." Exactly, the dollars come ahead of his sense, a long ways, or else he never would have been nominated. It now remains to be seen whether his dollars weigh more than the sense of the people,

As a packer, Asa Packer cast over Cass, an overcast that cast over a $100,000 pack. The people will now cast Packer and Packer's pack where Cass was cast, and thus as a packer, Asa Packer will be overcast.

The Pennsylvania Democracy have nominated twenty millions dollars for Governor. It is not intended to make them all Governors, only what is left of them after the campaign is ever.—Step up, gentlemen, and vote for your golden calf.

The new Democratic cry of "let us have P's"—means, literally, let us have a piece of Asa Packer,s money bags. The demand is so general that it will take a good many p's to go round.

ROSECRANS DECLINES.—It is impossible for Democrats to get a respectable soldier to run on their ticket. Gen. HANCOCK refused to be their candidate for Governor in this State, Gen. ROSECRANS has declined the honor in Ohio. The fact is, their principles do not suit respectable soldiers.—PACKER and VALLANDIGHAM are their representative men—the men that fully represent their principles. Oh! Democracy, how art thou fallen; how disloyal, disreputable, dispised and despicable thou art!

MEEK'S TRAVELS.—It is and old adage that "silence gives consent." Judged by this rule we have nailed both MEEK and HOSTERMAN and established the truth of what we published in relation to MEEK's travels and his slanderous attacks upon his friends and competitors. No man can fight the truth. MEEK knows this, Hence his silence. He and HOSTERMAN must try again or stand convicted before the bar of the intelligent people of Penn'a.

GET UP CLUBS.—We hope that our friends in each of the townships will go to work to secure us a list of subscribers for the campaign. The price of the Republican for three Months is ——50 cts. Every member of the party should subscribe for it. We appeal to Post Masters and others to get up clubs for the Republican.

The "Poor Man's Candidate."

Asa Packer and the Boatmen—He is Ducked in the Lehigh—A Reminiscence of 1843.

Hon Asa Packer, Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, is immensely rich. He is said to be worth twenty millions of dollars. It is this great wealth, that has given him position and secured him the nomination as in other respects he is a very ordinary man—not remarkable for talent or distinguished for public service of any sort.

Twenty millions of dollars is a large sum for any one man to accumulate in a life time. It could never have been accumulated by honest labor. In Judge Packer's case his collosal fortune was built up in the sweat of other men's brows, rather than his own. He became rich by grinding the face of the poor. As a proof of this we propose to refer back to some incidents in his business career which have come to our knowledge from reliable sources.

Twenty six years ago Asa Packer's business was that of boating on the Lehigh and Delaware Canals. He made large contracts to ship coal to New York and Philadelphia. He owned a number of boats himself, and in order to fulfil his contracts, hired all the boats and boatmen he could get at so much a ton for transportation, But it seems that this "Poor Man's Candidate," did not pay his men living prices, and a general 'strike' of the boat men employed by him was the consequence. It further appears that while this strike was going on Mr. Packer attempted to break it up by forcing the men to work for him at half pay. He visited South Easton where the boats were lying moored during the strike, and attempted in person to compel his men to go to work at the old rates.—But so violent was the feeling against him that he was seized by the men, thrown into the Lehigh and would have been drowned, but for a timely rescue. So exasperated were the boatmen against Packer, that they drove the man who had saved his life from the ground with stones. This incident is well remembered by the older residents of Easton and by all the old boatmen on the Lehigh. They characterize Packer as a hard man—reaping where he had not sown and gathering where he had not strewed. There are hundreds of Democrats in Carbon and adjoining counties who will refuse to vote for him on that account.

The following articles, copied from the Easton Whig of 1843, gave a short history of the Boatmen's strike on the Lehigh Canal, in that year, against the low wages and low freight policy of Packer and the coal and transportation companies in which he was interested:

[From the Easton Whig of July 14, 1843.]

A STRIKE FOR HIGHER WAGES.

The boatmen engaged in the transportation of coal for Mauch Chunk and other companies in that region, have tied up their boats at South Easton and refuse to continue in the service until an advance of prices is allowed. Three hundred boats are moored in and near South Easton, and six or eight hundred boatmen and hands have been idling around there for several days. To their credit it must be said that so far they have conducted themselves quietly and orderly. They say the prices now paid for transportation are too low to enable them to support themselves and families, and that they are compelled to ask an advance. They have heretofore received 50 cents per ton in good money for transporting to Philadelphia, and they now demand 77 cents and a proportionate advance for all intermediate places.

[From the Easton Whig July 19 1843.]

THE COAL TRADE.

The difficulty between the boatmen engaged in the transportation of coal and the Companies, have not yet been removed. The Companies do not it appears, consider themselves able to grant the advance in prices asked.—Nearly all the boats engaged in the coal trade, about 400 in number, are now moored opposite this place. The empty boats lie in the dam, and present the appearance of a floating village; the loaded ones are in the canal and cover an extent of about two miles,—On Saturday forenoon the boatmen visited our borough in procession with music and banners. About 200 were mounted on horses, and as many more were on foot. The procession was headed by the towpath or driver boys, and the rear was brought up by a large number mounted on mules. The whole presented an unusual and very singular appearance and caused quite an excitement. The horses, with two exceptions were rode without saddles and guided with halters, and many of the men were barefooted and appeared to be in want of new shirts, all of which had a tendency to excite a sympathetic feeling in their favour.

[From the Easton Whig of July 26, 1843.]

All the coal boats continue idle at South Easton and its vicinity. A majority of the boatmen have gone home and entered into other employment.

[From the Easton Whig of Aug. 2, 1843.]

The excitement created by the large number of boatmen who continue at this place on a strike rose to quite a threatening aspect on Monday and yesterday, and from all appearances a crisis is near at hand. On Monday morning, Asa Packer, owner of some of the boats, who resides in Mauch Chunk, attempted to move them off, when he was seized and thrown into the Lehigh river, and another person who assisted him out was afterwards driven from the ground with stones—Processes were issued for the apprehension of the leaders, but the officers were not able to apprehend them. Yesterday the Mauch Chunk Company had a conference with a committee of the boatmen, but no arrangement could be effected to remove the unfortunate state of things. The boatmen, the companies and the State are sustaining a great loss by the suspension of the coal trade, which has already lasted for two or three weeks. The peace as well as the interest of the community require that the evil should be removed and the laws be enforced and respected.

[From the Easton Whig of Aug. 30, 1843.]

After a delay of more than two months the usual activity and bustle of business is again seen along the line of the Mauch Chunk canal. The Companies have agreed to pay the boatmen 10 cents per ton in addition to their former rates of freight, together with their allowance of other minor advantages.

KENTUCKY is rapidly approaching the verge of civilization. About twenty Union men have been elected to the Legislature.

Letter From Virginia.

SOUTH SIDE R. R. VA., July 10th, 1869.

EDS. REPUBLICAN:—Since I came here, I often thought I would like to tell you something relative to the sentiments of the people of this part of the State, and I think what I say of them here, might be said of all the citizens throughout the State.

In the first place I will tell you that I was appointed a Registrar of this Dist. by Gen Canby, and entered on that duty on the 14th of June. This work ended on the 1st of July. I was also an election officer for the District. I was there on election day, the 6th of July. That day ended the business as far as I was concerned. During this time I had a fine opportunity to learn all about the feelings of the people, and I did not allow an opportunity to pass by unimproved. I found the people very willing to tell me what they tho't and believed.

It is not my object nor purpose to complain of these rebels because they have done just what anybody else wo'd do in a similar situation. The election is over, and the rebels have it all their own way, so far as I have heard, which is nothing more than any ought to have expected, as they had nothing to oppose them except a few "carpet-baggers," "scalawags," and the "ignorant negroes." All I intend to say about the rebels now, is, that they are a thousand times more bitter enemies of the U. S. Government and the Union party now, than they were in 1861. In 1861 all the old Whigs were opposed to secession, and a few of them voted against it. Many young Whigs were afraid to vote against it and, therefore, did not do so. Many of them say now, "they did as little for the success of the rebels as they possibly could."—This shows that the Government had some friends in the South in 1861 and during the war. Now let us see how it is with them to day: In this county there were only three white men who voted against the rebels—so I am told, and I have reason to believe it—two from Penn'a. and one from Ohio. All the Whigs have joined the rebels, and the rebs are bent on the destruction of the country. They claim that secession was and is right, and the rebellion must triumph. They say emancipation of slaves was an outrage upon them and should not have been attempted. They are full of the rebellious spirit, but, of course, never expect to be independent of the U. S. Government. They say they should have been allowed to "go to themselves;" but I think they do not expect now to ever be allowed to do so.

Their purpose now is, to get rid of the reconstruction acts, and then they will regulate everything to suit themselves.

The bill passed by Congress, authorizing the President to submit the Constitution framed by the Convention which met in Richmond on the 3d of Dec., 1867, to the voters of Virginia, was approved on the 10th day of Apr., 1869. As soon as I read it I was displeased with the plan, and said loyalty is at a heavy discount.

You are acquainted with said bill. It gave the President the right and power to submit to a separate vote any clauses he pleased. The President having this power of course must have supposed that Congress intended he should exercise it. Immediately after this, the rebels called on him and requested that clause 4, Sec. 1, Art. 3, be submitted to a separate vote; also Sec. 7. Art. 3. They put all their weight on these two clauses, and got him to promise to do something for them. Then they wanted two or three other clauses submitted in the same way, but they failed to get them submitted in this way. Clause 4, Sec. 1, Art. 3, is the disfranchising clause, and Sec. 7, Art. 3, is the test oath, or 'iron clad." The test oath was prescribed by act of Congress, July 2, 1862, I think, and disfranchisement by reconstruction Acts, Mar. 2, 1867, and July 19, 1867, &c.

That Convention put nothing in the Constitution which was not authorized by previous Acts of Congress, and therefore Congress sho'd not have been displeased with that instrument. Congress requires all officers of the U. S. to take that oath. That Convention intended that the Constitution of the U. S. should require all officers under it, to take the same oath. This, I think, is just and right. I was required to take that oath before entering upon the duties of Registrar, and I firmly believe that no man should exercise the functions of any office who cannot or should not take said oath.—I say Congress did wrong when it gave the President power to submit that Constitution in any other way or shape than the way it comes from the Convention.

To prove that it was wrong, I will suppose the following: Suppose at your last term of Court, there were convicted of murder, 15 or 20 men, and the sentence is death. Suppose, again, the Legislature meet before they are executed, and passes a bill authorizing the Governor to allow them to vote on the question "whether the sentence shall be carried into effect or not."—Now it is left to them, or a majority of them, to decide whether they shall hang or not, of course every man votes against the execution of sentence, and everybody looks upon it as a great foolishness to submit such a question to the vote of the criminals, and so it is.

The rebels of Virginia are situated just as those convicts were: they are guilty of the highest crime known to the law, and Congress proposed, in the first place, to punish them by disfranchising the most influenti'l, and preventing all who engaged in rebellion from holding office. This punishment cannot be considered severe but very just, and a very wise and cheap way to punish them. The sentence has gone forth, but Congress has allowed the question to be submitted to them whether they shall suffer the penalty or not, and they have voted upon the question and decided that the sentence sho'd not be carried out. This is what any one might have expected. The other part of the Constitution affects all alike, loyal and disloyal, white and black. Now, I say, if Congress calls this reconstruction, then I am done with Congress, and earnestly exhort the loyal people to be careful to elect true and tried men to Congress hereafter.

If Congress accepts the Constitution as it is, and allows the rebel members of Congress to take their seats, it will be worse beaten than any body that ever met in Washington. I am satisfied that under rebel domination there will not be one dozen sentences of the original Constitution remaining in force in five years after the State is admitted, and the Constitution adopted without the two clauses, which have been rejected, as I understand, by a large majority.

It is not my intention to complain of the election, though it does not express the free wish and will of the loyal people. Thousands of negroes voted with the rebels through fear of being turned out of their huts and discharged from labor. This was forced upon them so strongly that very few voted as they believed to be best.

At the election where I was, the whites were on the ground before sunrise, including the disfranchised, and remained as long as they could see in the evening, at least until sunset.—There were only two negroes in the District who could read, and one of them was held at the polls as a challenger, while the other one distributed tickets. As soon as he would give a ticket to a man, the whites would surround him with the intention of causing him to vote the rebel ticket, or at least to vote against the two clauses.

They would say to the negro: "you have all the rights you ask for, and we intend you shall have them and always be allowed to exercise them. We have not our rights, but ask you now to give them to us by voting our ticket, or at least by voting against the two clauses." If this argument failed, they would adopt the following: "You know the land is ours, and all the houses, and we have the right to rent to whom we please, and to hire whom we please; now, if you vote against us, we are determined to put you out of our houses and off our land; we will not allow our enemies to live in our houses nor work on our land." There was not a single white man at that election who took an interest in the darkies; they were alone, and of course when there was not one white man to give them counsel, they must have felt alone and helpless; so many of them voted against the two clauses openly to save being thrown out of their homes and employment.

I am satisfied such is the case, not only from what I saw outside, but also from what I saw while counting the ballots in the evening, or night. Wells' majority for Governor over Walker was 26 votes, and the majority against the two clauses was 10 or 11, and a great many votes against the clauses were the Republican votes, or tickets altered; the printed word "For," was erased and the word "Against" written on them, showing that the rebels did not surround a negro without accomplishing something.

I believe if the State is admitted under rebel rule that 95 negroes out of every hundred will be disfranchised within ten years after by requiring voters to own a certain amount of property, say $300 worth, which will cut out about 99 in a hundred. They will not allow themselves to be reduced to the necessity of calling on negroes to vote for them longer than it can be helped. By disfranchising the negro they will have undisputed sway over the State. There would not be enough Republicans left (of voters) to bring on a discussion at each voting place or District, and this is the way they intend it shall be soon.

I have been asked if I am not in favor of property qualifications for voters? I have to say that I cannot favor anything of the kind. They think it strange that I should oppose this. I have said, that before I came here, I was in favor of an educational qualification, but I would oppose that in this State, while they would be in favor of this, too.

A man where you are, cannot tell what these rebels want, nor intend to do; neither can a man tell anything about them by travelling through the State. When I came here first, I tho't everybody seemed to be my friend, and anxious to see me and others come amongst them; but now how is it? I read, in a rebel paper before the election, that "if they carried the election, as they knew they would, they would clean out the carpet-bagger, and dry up the scalawag, and put the negro where he could do no harm."

In this same paper it was stated that "every carpet-bagger should be kicked out of the State." This paper was the Lynchburg Tri-Weekly News. One of my neighbors said to a darkey last night' "that I will have to leave now soon—he can't stay in this country." I don't expect to leave soon. If the law did not interfere, and the military, I believe it would not be safe for me to be away from home much during the evening.

Their hatred for the Republican party could not be more intense; but now they feel a little friendly towards Congress and Grant for submitting the Constitution as they did, and if they approve the Constitution and election, and admit the State under rebel rule, the white Republicans from the North will certainly not be able to live amongst them, for it is bad enough now, and if I did not hope and expect that it will get better I would be very sick of my location.

Yours Truly,

TEMPLE.

"GRANDFATHER'S STOVE."

Our grandfather's stove, what a fun'y old thing,
So deep, so wide and so tall;
Now the people would say, who are stylish and gay,
"It was only a hole in the wall."

It matters not what, it was pleasant to see
When night's mantle was flung over all;
Grandfather take down his good book and read
By the light from the hole in the wall.

As the sturdy young men rolled in the great logs,
They would laugh at each wintry squall,
Whilst grandma would sit on her old chair and knit
By the light from the whole in the wall.

The girls then wore home spun, and so did their beaux's,
For pride was a principle small;
And courting was done and hearts have been won
By the light from the hole in the wall.

The neighbors were friendly wherever they'd meet,
With a word of true kindness for all;
And joy was complete to hear voices so sweet
Ring round that old hole in the wall.

In those days we knew, folks cared not for show,
Of improvements knew nothing at all;
But 'twas really no joke, when great clouds of smoke
Rushed out from the hole in the wall.

But those days are now o'er, we shall know them no more,
And all those old fashions have flown;
Whilst the solemn and gay are coming each day
To purchase the famous "OLD HOME."

Coming not only in couples, but in scores, as hundreds of good and wise men and women have done before, to look upon this magnificent stove, which is acknowledged to be the best cooking stove of the age. Remember the place,

TIMBER LEAVE FOR SALE.

Sealed Proposals for the cutting of the Hemlock timber on the Boudinot lands, held in trust by the city of Philadelphia, situated on the southeast side of the Susquehanna River, in Burnside twp, Centre county, containing about thirteen thousand acres, will be received by the Superintendent of Trusts of the city of Philadelphia, at his office in Wills Hospital, on the south side of Logan Square, until the 22nd day of September next, and will be opened by him at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, in the Chamber of Common Councils of the said city, in the presence of the Committee on Trusts and Fire Department and of such bidders as may attend; all bids to be addressed to Charles Oat, Superintendent of Trusts, and to be endersed: "Proposals for cutting the Hemlock timber on the Boudinot Lands." Such proposals are to specify the duration of the lease asked for, not exceeding five years, and the price offered per thousand square feet, board measure, for saw logs; they must also be accompanied by the names of two responsible sureties, residents of Philadelphia would be preferred, who are willing to give bonds in the amount of five thousand dollars, for the faithful performance of the contract. The timber leave will embrace only the Hemlock as shall exceed twelve inches in diameter at the butt.—The lessee will be required to purchase the right of road way, and the use of any and all structures which have been made or built by the present lessees. The cutting and measuring of the Hemlock timber to be under the supervision of an agent appointed by the city; the timb'r to be cut clear; that is, after commencing on a tract, all the Hemlock timber thereon must be cut before proceeding to another, the measuring to be done on the bank, and the price secured before launching the timber. The city of Philadelphia reserves the right to enter upon the lands at all times, by its agents, for the purpose of examining into the performance of the conditions of the lease, or for any other purpose whatever; and also the right to explore, dig or mine or coal, and to erect all kind of structures, and to construct all roads, railroads, and bridges necessary for mining purposes.

The city also reserves the right, absolutely, to reject any or all bids, for inadequacy of price, insufficiency of security, or other reasons.

JAMES KREPS,
Proprietor.

OATS.—We are informed that Mr. Samuel Pletcher raised oats on his farm, in Howard tp., which measured six feet and two inches in length. Not only two or three stalks, but the whole field would average from 5½ to 6 feet. The largest, as above stated, measuring six feet two inches. If any of our farmers can beat this, in Nittany, or Pennsvalley, or, indeed, in the county, we would be pleased to make a note of it.

LOAFERS.—We clip the following remarks from an exchange about young men standing on hotel steps and street corners: "Six young gentlemen standing on the corner of the street; six pair of hands in their pants pockets; six mouths squirting tobacco juice in every direction; six pairs of eyes looking impudently at every woman and girl passing by; and six tongues surpassing each other in indecent remarks."

FARM FOR SALE.—Persons desiring to purchase a first rate farm, should call at, once, at the REPUBLICAN office, or upon Bond Valentine, Esq. This farm contains about 195 acres, forty acres of which are meadow. The buildings—house, barn and out-buildings—are all the very best. It is located about 1½ miles from Bellefonte. There is a great bargain in this farm Farmers desiring a first class farm, should call and see it. Terms easy.

NEW WHEAT.—Geo. W. Thomas, of the firm of Burnside & Thomas, showed us a specimen of wheat raised on his farm, in Benner township. Some of the heads measured five inches in length, and were well filled We are informed that the whole field, fifteen acres, was just as good as what we saw. The name of the wheat is "White velvet smooth chaff."—Mr. Thomas has threshed and cleaned several bushels for seed. Farmers wishing to purchase seed wheat of a superior quality, should call at once, and examine.

Since writing the above, Mr. Thomas G. Purdue, of Benner tp , has left in our office a number of heads of the same kind of wheat, that will certainly settle all disputes in regard to the superiority of the "white velvet smooth chaff" over any other variety of wheat raised in the county. We counted the grains in two of the heads now in our office. One contained 94 grains, the other 74. Can any of our farmers produce anything to beat this? Mr. Purdue is also ready to supply the trade with seed wheat.

A specimen of the White Mediterranian wheat was shown us a short time since. Some of the heads measuring nearly six inches This wheat was raised in Howard tp., on the farm of Wm. Brown, Esq., of Spring tp. Mr. Brown thinks there can be no better or more profitable wheat raised, than the White Mediterranian, and also believes it to be peculiarly adapted to the soil and climate of Bald Eagle Valley. Farmers wishing to purchase this variety of wheat for seed, should call, at once, on Mr. Brown, at his residence, near Valentine's Furnace.

LOST AND WON.—Through a private letter from Gregg tp., we learn how our friend, Peter G., of Pennsvalley notoriety, lost a bottle of Baum's best ardent, and how it was won by a spiritual reader of the Watchman residing at Centre Hall.—Peter G., in company with a friend, (through courtesy, nameless here,) called on his friend, John Conley, to arrange the slate for Gregg. Matters getting a little mixed, Peter produced his sample from Baums, and, under its soothing effects, the business progressed delightfully, until old Johnnie K——r, of Centre Hall, was seen approaching Now, be it known, K. invariably sets his face, like a flint, "agin" every colored character of liquor. Conley grasped the bottle by the neck to secure a parting drink; Meek grasped it to save the remaining modicum for Jerry Fisher, at Penn Hall, and the nameless gentleman grasped it to chuck it under the table. Ere each had comprehended the others motive, Johnnie entered and caught sight of the disappearing stimulent. Meek, adverse to securing the fluid, while Johnnie was present, was compelled to depart for Penn Hall sadly dejected. Johnnie K. became immediately seized with a violent cramp in his stomach, brought on, as he alleges, by a too hearty dinner.—Conley suggested a "drop" of Baum's best. Johnnie eyed the craythher reverently for a moment, and then devoured the contents with the ease and dexterity with which a pond frog gulps down a shad fly. The effect was electrical, and Johnnie has frequently declared that Meek's whiskey saved his life, and he wonders why Peter left it.

TO CAPITALISTS.—A favorable opportunity is now offered for establishing Stove Works in Lock Haven. Mr. H. B. Van Benthuysen, who has secured several valuable patents, and has had considerable experience in the stove business, has one stove completed, and ready for examination and test. This stove embraces twenty distinct and original inventions, adapting it to the use of both anthracite and bituminous coal, on the base burning, or perfect combustion principle, consuming the smoke and gas, and can be used for cooking as well as heating purposes.

Any one, or more gentlemen, desirous of engaging in the manufacture of stoves, or forming a stock company for that purpose, can learn all the particulars from the patentee, and have an opportunity of investigating the subject for themselves, or of engaging an expert on whose judgment they can rely. No engagement, or subscription of stock, will be considered binding, till the examination and test is made satisfactory. He wishes to rest his inventions solely upon their merits. His terms are liberal, and can but prove acceptable. We have examined the stove, and, so far as our judgment goes, we think it will succeed.—Lock Haven Republican.

We have no objections to the citizens of Lock Haven establishing large stove works in their beautiful town; but we do think that the patentee was a little unfortunate in not visiting Bellefonte before deciding on Lock Haven as the place for his future operations. The stove works should be in Bellefonte. We have more rich men and capital than Lock Haven. We have a water power not surpassed by any in the United States. We have the best iron for making stoves, and manufacture it just out side the borough limits. There is no better iron made any where, than that manufactured by the Messrs. Valentine & Co., Bellefonte; Linn & McCoy, Milesburg; the Messrs. Curtin, at Eagle works, about five miles from this place. Then why choose Lock Haven for the stove works? We have our doubts about the company being raised in Lock Haven; but we do think, if the pantentee can succeed in convincing our capitalists that he has a "good thing," he will have no trouble in raising a company to establish the works here. We hope he will pay our town a visit.

BELLEFONTE AS SEEN BY A STRANGER.—The Editor of the Times and Educator recently paid our sanctum a visit. We found him to be a whole souled, energetic specimen of the corps Editorial, and it is with pleasure we say, that every true friend of education should subscribe for the Times and Educator. The Editor was delighted with his visit to our thriving young city. We copy the following extract from the Editorial correspondence of the Times:

* * * * * * *

Bellefonte used to be a dead town, but now it is a live town. It has eight churches, the Catholic being the strongest congregation in town; two newspapers, (it used to have three, but one of them, the Bellefonte National, went "up the spout," by getting down under the Sheriff's hammer,) an Academy, a pretty good Court House, and a new jail.—The Episcopalian and Presbyterian congregations are each putting up a new church, which, when finished, will be magnificent structures. One of them is to cost fifty thousand dollars.

As I intimated before, there are very many wealthy men here, all of whom have superb private residences. At the head of them all stands Henry Brockerhoff, who came to this section of country about fifty years ago. He got rich chiefly by merchandising. At first he peddled dry goods and notions—the people used to call him the match pedlar—first in a knapsack, and then with a wagon. At that time many French and German emigrants settled in Elk county, and as Mr. Brockerhoff could speak both languages well, he soon got all their trade, and also their savings, for safekeeping. Possessing German tact, foresight and frugality, he soon became very rich, and is now a millionaire. Mr. Brockerhoff is about 80 years of age, and is a finely educated gentleman. Some time ago, he bought a large tract of land in Virginia, and thinks he will spend his winters there hereafter. He also expects to go to Europe once more, where he lately fell heir to a large fortune. Truly, fortuna, fortibus fabet.

The second richest man here is said to be William F Reynolds, Esq. I could not learn anything of his antecedents, and can only say, perhaps with some degree of satisfaction to a certain class of females in Bethlehem, that he is a bachelor, and that he is ready and willing to marry a lady who will marry him and not his money.

Mr. Bush, proprietor of the Bush House, is another example of what industry and frugality, especially when joined with good luck, can accomplish. Mr. Bush came to these parts about ten years ago, pedling school maps, and making educational speeches. Soon after he studied law, and the money he made by practising law, he invested in oil speculations, by which he grew immensely rich. He owns a great many houses, and contributes his share towards beautifying and otherwise improving the town.

The School Board here are putting up a fine new school house The walls consist of what they here call mountain sand stone. I was shown the draft, which was drawn by J. C. Sidney, Architect, Philadelphia, and from it, I would judge, that it will be a very imposing building when finished. The cost will be about twenty thousand dollars. The building will be two stories high. The rooms on the first floor will be fourteen feet high, and those on the second thirteen feet. On the first floor there will be four class rooms, each 20x26 feet, four closets, a teachers' room and a directors' room, each 12x14 feet, and two main entrance halls. Outside of the building, and at two opposite corners of the same, will be two fine porches. On the second story will also be four class rooms of the same size, and two recitation rooms, which can also be used as school rooms, corresponding to the teachers' room and the directors' room on the first floor. The school-house will have a fine cupola, with a bell in it. The house is surrounded by a large play ground.—The partitions between the class rooms will consist of glass, from a certain height from the floor, and will be so constructed that the four rooms can be thro'n into one hall. The school-house will, altogether, be constructed on a very fine model.

Could I stay in Bellefonte? Of course I could; for ubi bene, ibi patria. The people here are intelligent and sociable. My especial thanks are due to Mr. Hoffer and his excellent lady, as also to the proprietors and Editors of the two newspapers published here, for the many acts of kindness shown me during my stay here, and it now gives me very great pleasure to be able to acknowledge my gratefulness to these persons in this public way. D. E. S.

County Correspondence.

CENTRE HALL, Aug. 9, '69.

The long agony is over, and Meek's "Loop fossil" has conquered. The Judge, Spangler and Love were present on Saturday, corporeally and in spirit(s). The Judge, gravely adjusting his gold bowed lenses, blandly sank into one of Porter's flush-plastered chairs, as chairman.—Spangler, unconsciously (?) near the marble-topped bar, and scripturally surfeited with grieveances, confidentially informed his friend Johnnie Keller, that "dis ding ish going all wrong. Ven I lived in Schneider gounty, I rebresented dat gounty for sefen year, put now, ub hear, nopody must do put Doctor Schmidt. Id ish all wrong; I dond like it, I dell you now." Love, fearful lest some of Meyer's emmissaries might make way with him inside, discreetly and energetically strode up and down the macadamized pavement in front of the Old Fort Hotel. The Machiavel in the chair vouchsafed not a relieving word of his policy to the anxious pacer without, whose patience was momentarially wasting as he walked. And, as he paced, he mused, and his thoughts were of the past four decades—of services innumerable—of four-horse chariots, sped by steeds encased in dutch gears, and bearing upon their steaming flanks streamers labelled "Love, Loop, Legislature." Of the halt, maimed, blind and antiquated, but intelligent freemen he had snaked from their mountain fastnesses, (sections to which Bate Wassan prayed the Gospel might be sent, "where man never was, and God never thought of,") kindly furnished them with unterrified tickets, read the names thereon, and told the clerk of the Board their several names in full, as they respectively exercised the inalienable right of suffrage. He mused on the uncertainty of things earthly, and especially on the ungertainty of things political. His excited brain in vain essayed to establish the exact point of musical excellence which divided the singing from the political world, and gave the chromatic hero of Haines such amazing odds in the legislative race. In vain he attempted a stave or two at familiar Balerma, if, hapily, an unknown power of pent up song might gush forth and matters be thereby measurably balanced.—He couldn't Balerma worth a Loop string of beans, and he was compelled to fall back on his streamers and four-horse wagon. Ad interum, the balloting progressed. Spangler, mounting the chairman's shoulders, announced the result of the first ballot as follows:

Sheneral Schackson, dirty-dree.
Sheneral Sthonewall Schackson, ninedy-dree.
Frank. Flair, swansy.
Meek, sefen.
Love, feir ein swansy.

The delegates elected, and the question of instructing them arising, Spangler, as chairman of the delegation, proceeded to instruct the remaining members something as follows:

"Shentlemen, we is in a dundering vix. Som uv you ish Meek men; sum ish Meyer men; sum ish Love men. Dis beish all wrong; ven I vas lected do der legislador vrom der Schneider gounty, I always voted vor myself; and I guess dat ish de pest vay now."

The Judge, hereupon, suggested that, as the party was indebted to Col. Love for the past forty year's horse hire, and as the Col. had consented to accept of the vote of the delegation in the county convention as a receipt in full, the party could do no better than to thus cancel the bill. That no money was involved in this arrangement, seemed to be comprehended "tu onct," and thus the delegates, consisting of John and Ezra Spangler, Wm. Wolf, Jas. Krotzer, John K. Runkle, Sam'l Slack and John Rishell, were instructed. Love was delighted; offered to pay the bill at Bellefonte if the boys stuck to him; treated "all hands 'round" "wondered what Meek and Jake Meyer would say to that;" told your reporter to fix the thing up right; seated himself in his four-horse chariot, and as he moved away, pulled out of his side pocket, and commenced reading an 1835 edition of a legislative manual.

The Republicans convened, and elect ing Geo. Odenkirk and Andy Gregg, Esq., respectively, Chairman and Secretary, proceeded to ballot for delegates. The following named gentlemen were selected:

Geo. Odenkirk, Wm. J. Thompson, Andy Gregg and Leonard Rhone, all good, true and representative Republicans.—They were uninstructed.

A rather amusing incident occurred here one day last week. A Democratic aspirant became so disgusted with the condition of affairs that, in a moment of exasperation, seizing a rusty meat-ax, used for amputating, he attempted to cut down the Democratic pole. Chris Keller, with much difficulty, restrained his excited opponent, and the woodman spared the tree.

A young "blood," anxious for the sweets of doubled-up felicity, has, of late, paid strict and frequent attentions at the shrine of a buxom grass widow of this place. The trips being so frequent, at such unseasonable hours, and the roads so bad, several of our sympathetic youngsters generously carried a few dozen baskets of shavings, and spread a feathery pathway from the residence of our gay hero, to the domicil of his adored. Any more such tricks would be one too many. MCCRACKEN.

PIC-NIC.—The St. Patrick's Temperance Society, of Bellefonte, will hold a pic-nic, in the Pine Grove, near the Friend's burying ground, on Wednesday, Aug. 18, '69. A good dinner and refreshments will be served on the ground. The friends of the Temperance cause, and the public generally, are cordially invited to join in the festivities of the occasion.

BIG, IF TRUE.—A young gentleman named Van Pelt, residing at Centre Hall, states that his grandmother gave birth to twelve children, each of whom was a twin; and, therefore, the entire posses put in an appearance at six different interesting occasions. What grandmother can beat it?

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY is warranted to cure Catarrh in its worst forms and stages. The most painful cases are speedily relieved by it, and stoppages, offensive discharges, and tainted breath all yield to its wonderful curative powers. "Cold in the head," dizziness and thin watery discharges are removed, the head cleared, the air passages opened, and relief and comfort afforded by its use. It contains no strong irritating, poisonous or caustic drugs. Sent by mail on receipt of sixty cents. Address R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by most Druggists everywhere.

PAPER PETTICOATS.—An exchange says the uses to which paper can be put seems to be in no way exhausted yet. Paper collars have become a great fact of the present nineteenth century, but what will ladies say to paper petticoats? These have been produced with great success, and will rival in every way the snow-white and elaborately ornate garments poor male mortals are accustomed to look upon with fear and reverence. We have all heard of the artist who used to make caricatures of friends upon his shirt collars, and the author who inscribed an epic upon a couple of dozen of the same useful article of attire. Thus we see a field of great usefulness for the future. Young ladies can make sketches from nature on their own petticoats.—Every damsel her own sketch book will be their motto. Poets can inscribe sennets to their mistress' ankles around the hem of their petticoat. Mothers can have fairy tales, alphabets and small scholastic words inscribed on their garments, and so instruct their children as they walk about with them.

FIRE AND ACCIDENT.—During the storm of last Wednesday evening, the barn of Mr. John Long, near Salona, in Nittany Valley, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground with all its contents. As soon as the building was struck, Mr. Long started to a neighbors for aid, when his horse, blinded by repeated flashes of lightening, ran against a fence and threw him off, bruising him severely. Although much hurt, he is again about attending to the rebuilding of his barn, which he commenced at once. The loss of the crop is complete, having put the last in the barn during the afternoon preceding the storm. Insured in the Danville Farmer's Insurance Co. Loss, outside of insurance, about $1800. Another warning to farmers to insure in some good company.

DODD'S
NERVINE
DID IT.

NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND—I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entere recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. Very truly.
jy21'69 4w. MRS. I. S. NUTE.

BE CAREFUL
WHAT MEDICINES
YOU TAKE
When you are exhausted by over-work of head or hand, and feel the need of something invigorating, don't drink whiskey nor any intoxicating thing, whether under the name strength to your weary body and mind as the whip gives to the jaded horse, and no more. Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to Nerve-health, and are ALWAYS followed by DEPRESSING REACTION.
DODD'S NERVINE & INVIGORATOR
is a TONIC and GENTLE STIMULANT which is NOT attended by REACTION. What it gains for you it maintains. When it refreshes body or mind, it refreshes with natural strenght that come to stay. We are not recommending tetotalism in the interest of any faction; but long and extended observation teaches us that he who resorts to the bottle for rest or recuperation, will find, as he keeps at it, that he is kindling a fire in his bones which will consume like the flames of perdition. Turn from it. Take a tonic that will rerrech and not destroy. Dodd's Nervine is for sale by all Druggists. Price One Dollar. See book of Certificates that accompanies each bottle.

WEDNESDAY MORNING Aug. 11, '69,

The Care of Harness.

Perhaps nothing on a farm better repays the care bestowed on it than harness; few things go so quickly to to the bad from neglect.

Now if the bare consideration of economy (for the article in question is costly,) we add a little for appearance-sake in nicely kept harness, something for the comfort of animals working in well-fitting, flexible leather, and what value you please for the safety to life and limb of the owner and beast, we need not apologize for asking attention to this subject as important.

Harness ought to be washed about once a month with a sponge and Castile soap-one strap at a time—and the soap removed by a clear-water sponge as soon as the surface is cleansed.

Twice a year it should be oiled, or oftener if much used and frequently wet and dry. Unless you can obtain perfectly pure neat's foot oil, (such as Peter Cooper's,) make it yourself.—Take the feet of a beef, crush the bones well with a sledge or axe, and boil them in a large pot of water for 12 hours. Make two quarts of tallow from freid beef or mutton suet, and pour it into a four-quart can (which should have a lid to keep out mice) and place it on the stove. Add a lump of pure yellow wax as large as a hen's egg, stirring as it melts. Then fill up the can with neat's foot oil, and, removing it from the fire, continue to stir until the intermixture is thoroughly complete. This, when cold, will be of about the same consistence as hog's lard. Keep in the can a bit of sponge always ready for use. It ought to be damp when it first goes into the grease, as it will remain more flexible always afterwards than if greased when dry.

Leather which has become dry and horny thro' long neglect, will receive no benefit from grease applied to it in its dry and hard condition. You must not only have grease of the right sort, but must know how to use it. First, then, take the harness apart wherever it can be unbuckled. If hard, soak it in clear water (not warmer than milk freshly drawn) for several hours. Then wash the pieces as directed with Castile soap, and work them in the hands until they are soft and pliant; and if in very bad condition, this will require care and patience. Hang in a room where they will not dry too rapidly. When about half dry, apply the grease liberally on both sides, and again hang up, for at least one day if possible.

A white crust like stearine will be left on the surface when the leather is dry, which can be removed with a dry coarse cloth. For common work harness nothing more will be needed, but carriage harness may be again washed with a sponge, and wiped with a dry chamois skin.

Boots and shoes, of cow hide, kip or calf skin, ought to be treated in the same way several times a year. If the surface is washed with Castile soap, they will take a superior polish after the second brushing. Try the comfort of such boots, and I shall then be able to appeal to your understandings, O farmers, as well as your interest, when I urge you not to declare "The Care of Harness."—Country Gentlemen.

The Farmer's Shop.

Every farmer should have a shop fitted up with such tools as are used by the carpenter, joiner, machinist and blacksmith, or with those that would be valuable in making repairs. Above all, we consider a good foot lathe very desirable. It would be impossible within the limits of a newspaper article to merely notice the advantages of this machine and its varied uses. A very good foot lathe costs from sixty to one hundred dollars, and the money is well expended in the purchase. Articles of use and ornament made of wood, ivory, and metal may be turned out by the foot lathe convenient for use in the house or on the farm. The practice on the lathe is one of the most facinating pastimes for a stormy day or an unemployed evening. Apart from its use in making and repairing the foot lathe is a pleasant companion for the business haunted and brain weary.—One who adopts it as a companion of his leisure hours will soon become an adept, and the more he uses and becomes acquainted with his mahine, the better he will like it. He will be surprised at the number and elegance of the little articles of use and ornament he can produce from the rough material, and at the pleasure that the practice of a mechanical art can afford. —Scientiffe American.

RECIPE WORTH ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS.—The Ohio Cultivator says the following recipe is worth one thousand dollars to every housekeeper: "Take one pound of sal soda and half a pound of unslackened lime and put them in a gallon of water, boil twenty minutes, let it stand till cool, then drain off and put in a small jug or jar; soak your dirty clothes over night, or until they are wet through, then wring them, and rub on plenty of soap, and with water add one teacupful of the washing, fluid; boil half an hour or more, rinse, and your clothes will look better than by the old way of washing twice before boiling. That is an invaluable recipe, and every poor, tired woman should try it."

If the roots of trees are dipped into water just before planting, the earth that sticks to them will give immediate support to the smaller fibres.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.
GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.
Sung to the Tune of Yankee Doodle.
The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now comple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.
The mighty work at last is done,
So speedily and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.
No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.
CHORUS, for the end of each verse:
The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.
Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.
People who travel by other routes, and all so people who, instead of traveling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest prices.
Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality,
RANGING FROM $6.50 TO $18.00

SEWING MACHINES.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE
OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.
MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.

In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.
It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.
The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.
INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.
Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at

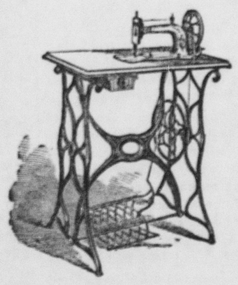
SEWING MACHINE.
THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE.



Among sewing machines, those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company, rank with the highest. Their manufacturing machines, have long been known as the best for manufacturing purposes. But within the past few years, they have given special attention to the production of a FAMILY MACHINE,
destined to win much favor in the HOUSEHOLD.
The machine which they now offer is quiet-light-running, simple, fast, noiseless. Its accessories for
HEMMING, BRAIDING, BINDING,
QUILTING, TUCKING, CORDING,
FELLING, GATHERING,
are simple and easily understood. Its delicate though enduring and tireless muscles of iron and steel, do all the work noiselessly, better, and few will deny, "Faster than hand can do it." They urge those wishing to purchase a machine, to examine all the other manufactures before buying, as it will, for itself, overcome all the objections to the other machines that can be brought against it. Machines on hand for sale and exhibition, together with a full and complete assortmet of SILK, TWIST, LINEN, OR COTTON THREAD, and all the accessories for the machines, by
